VOL. XXII NO. 5

NORTHFIELD, MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1929

PRICE FIVE CENTS

WANT W. R. MOODY AS CONFERENCE MANAGER

Memorial with 757 Signatures To be Placed Before Board of Trustees

A committee of five leaders in the Protestant religious life of the United States has been appointed to appear before the board of trustees of the Northfield Schools in Massachusetts and petition that William R. Moody be continued as head of the annual Summer Bible conferences as long as he lives and has the health to serve. The committee has been deputated to place before the trustees a copy of a memorial to this effect bearing 757 names and addressed to Mr. Moody.

It is expected that the memorial will be presented by the Committee of Five for action at the next meeting of the board which is in October.

By action of the board, taken June 2, 1928, the direction of the Summer Bible conferences was separated from the executive control of the Northfield schools and placed entirely in the hands of "the chairman of the Board." As Mr. Moody is no longer chairman of the board the General Conference of Christian Workers, which closed a fortnight ago, is automatically the last that he shall arrange for and preside over unless the action is amended at a future meeting.

The committee consists of the following:

The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle at Fifty-sixth street, New York city.

The Rev. Dr. John McDowell, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, 156 Fifth avenue, New York city.

The Rev. Dr. Charles R. Erdman, professor in Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Princeton, and president of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, who until recently was moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, and president of the Federation of Women's Protestant Boards of Foreign Missions of North America.

The Rev. G. Edwin Woodman, pastor of the First Congregational church, Milton, Mass.

All the members of the committee attended the recent General Conference and all are friends of Northfield of many years' standing.

JOHN ELLIS NYE

DIED WEDNESDAY

Well Known Citizen Passes Away

After Brief Illness

John Ellis Nye passed away at his home on Main street Wednesday afternoon after a short illness. He was born in Northfield Dec. 6, 1855, and always lived here. His father died when he was twelve years old, leaving a wife and six children, and being the oldest he worked hard to help his mother carry on the farm and bring up the family.

He was employed for five years by Rev. George F. Pentecost on his place here and then for over forty years was butter-maker at the Northfield Creamery, where he became an expert and the fine product he turned out will long be remembered by its many consumers.

He was a very conscientious worker and things had to be done right and completed before he would call the day's work finished even though he had to work overtime. He was perfectly honest and had the confidence of all that had any business with the creamery.

He joined Harmony lodge on May 12, 1886, and while he held many offices and at one time was senior warden, he could not be prevailed upon to take the worshipful master's chair. He was a charter member of Northfield chapter, O. E. S., also a member of the Historical society.

He married Mary Lyman, who died in 1891, leaving one daughter, Miss Nellie Nye, who for many years has been employed in William Davenport's law office in Greenfield. In 1894 he married Mary M. Long, who survives him. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Lora Morrill of Sunderland and three brothers, Edward of Peterboro, N. H., and Thomas and Henry of Holyoke.

The funeral will be held at the home on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Francis W. Pattison officiating and burial will take place in the family lot in Central cemetery.

At the annual meeting of the New England Spiritualist Camp Meeting association held August 19th, the officers elected were Rev. Otto von Bourg, president; Mrs. Josephine M. Simon, Mrs. Harriet A. Nash, Mrs. Amelia Adams, vice-presidents; Rev. Albert P. Blinn, secretary; Mrs. C. H. Collamore, treasurer; Monroe S. Burt, Erik Osterberg, John E. Butler, J. H. Fink, J. William Feyl and Mrs. Minnie M. Spalding, directors. The reports showed the association to be in an excellent financial condition with real estate worth several thousand dollars, no indebtedness and approximately $1300 in the treasury.

The severe illness of President von Bourg for the past two weeks made it necessary to fill the dates upon which he was to serve with other speakers and mediums, Rev. Albert P. Blinn, Mrs. J. M. Simon and Harold Alderson serving in his stead.

During the month the speakers and psychics who have been under engagement and served this association are Rev. Otto von Bourg, Rev. Maude L. Torrey, Mrs. Amelia Adams, Rev. William E. Hammond, Rev. Albert P. Blinn, Mrs. Josephine M. Simon, Rev. Alfred H. Terry and Harold Alderson. The work of all of these has been well received and the services have been much better attended than a year ago.

The playing of Mrs. June Schneider as pianist, Fred Schneider as violinist and John W. Ringhofer as vocalist, has been especially enjoyable and added greatly to the attractiveness of the services.

The dances which have been held in the Temple each Saturday night and which will continue through September have drawn the largest attendance in the history of the camp and the music of the Goodnow Singing orchestra has been thoroughly appreciated.

The Lake Pleasant Lyceum held its sessions each Saturday with several children and many of their elders attending, and the exercises were interesting and instructive. At the session last Saturday afternoon, eleven children were consecrated, Mr. Harold performing the consecration service which was very impressive and beautiful.

The Lake Pleasant Inn, owned and operated by the Camp Meeting association, closed its season Sept. 3rd with a substantial balance clear after all expenses were paid.

Altogether the 57th convocation has been prosperous in every way and closes with a larger membership than for years and a firmly established financial standing for the association.

Home Canning Made Easy

9 CANNING POINTS

1. Have all equipment in readiness before canning is started.

2. Pack products in jars or cans that will seal air tight. Spillage in canned foods is frequently due to imperfect containers.

3. Pressure cookers are helpful in the canning of meat and all non-acid vegetables. The high pressure obtainable assures perfect sterilization. Pressure cookers also save time and fuel.

4. If you live in the South, or in very high altitudes, or in the west coast states, get the time-tables for canning recommended by your state college. In these sections it is recommended not to use hot water for the canning of vegetables and meats but the pressure cooker.

5. For exhibit and contest purposes always use glass jars.

6. Empty space in a jar will not lessen the keeping qualities of the food, but it detracts from the appearance and is a waste of jar space.

7. To can fruit juices pasteurize for from 25 to 30 minutes at 160°

8. Roland Grout joined a party of 25 from Millers Falls for a day deep sea fishing trip to Kittery Point, Maine.

Miss Myra Martin of Springfield and Miss Lesbia Wharf of Cambridge were over the holiday guests of Miss Ethel Farley.

Mrs. Jeanette Bates of Amesbury and Miss Estelle Thompson of New York city are visitors at F. E. Thompson's.

170 degrees. Boiling fruit juice destroys the flavor.

8. Canning does not change poor products into good products so use good products to put into jars. And do not spoil good products by half-way methods of canning. Use the quickest, safest, and most efficient method of canning, which is the pressure cooker method.

9. Before storing canned products away in a cool dry airy place for winter use keep the jars under observation at room temperature for at least one week.

The bride was gowned in white satin and carried pink roses. She was attended by her twin sister, Mrs. Lawrence E. Shearer, who wore orange georgette crepe and carried sweet peas. TOWN MEMORIAL TO MOODY AND SANKEY

Surely it is Time that Northfield Honored Itself By Perpetuating the Memory of These Great and Good Townsmen

Under the head of "This Week in History" our syndicate sheet tells us that Ira D. Sankey was born August 28, 1840. Here is a man of world-wide fame with no public memorial that we know of in this town of Northfield. We remember the famous combination of Moody and Sankey and without detracting from the firstnamed we feel that somehow or other the deeds of the latter have been allowed to fade away from local memory. And yet, altogether aside from his fame as great co-evangelist with Moody, some of the best critics claim that Sankey, as a composer of real music, ranks very high. As a matter of fact, neither Moody nor Sankey appear to have had any official or community recognition in this town, from which their activities radiated and where they resided.

It seems to us both remarkable and uncanny that there are no pieces of stately, memorial fountain or tablet, upon the main thoroughfare of the town, to the memory of Moody and Sankey. We don't want to appear harshly critical but we believe that almost any other town in New England would have accomplished this long ago. But, better late than never and we hope to hear, at least, that there is a committee working on this or some group of our citizenry who have this matter in mind. We await information before going further.

ARE THERE ANY GROWN-UPS IN THIS SECTION WHO CANNOT READ AND WRITE?

An astounding statement is made in the current advertisements of the Metropolitan Insurance Company that there are over 5,000,000 illiterates in this United States of whom over 3,000,000 are native born. And still more astounding is the item that 150,000 of those who cannot read or write are in Massachusetts.

We have great respect and admiration for the research work of the Metropolitan Insurance Company. Much as we may marvel at this last named statement we cannot help but accept it as the truth.....even tho' we do not happen to be able to hear of a single individual in this little corner of our Commonwealth who cannot read and write.

The Metropolitan offers to materially assist (with supplies) in the fine work of teaching these illiterates to read and write and we hope our readers will take advantage of this splendid opportunity. IF YOU KNOW OF ANY MAN OR WOMAN IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD WHO CANNOT READ AND WRITE will you correspond with the Metropolitan Insurance Company, New York City, in regard to the matter and upon receipt of the necessary supplies, devote an occasional half hour to helping the unfortunate brother or sister to a plane where they can get something, at least, of the riches of God's wisdom that so many of us now enjoy in vast measure?

And if there is any way that it would seem we could help in such a case, will you not call upon us so that we may have the opportunity to serve? Cheerio.

Fourth Reunion of the Holton Holton Family Association

The fourth reunion of the Holton Family Association, composed of the descendants of William Holton from whom the late D. L. Moody descended was held last Saturday at The Northfield Hotel.

An hour was spent in receiving and greeting the eighty-two members present, after which a business meeting was held in the hotel parlors. The following officers were elected: President, Rev. Charles S. Holton; Newburyport; vice-presidents, Rev. C. Leonard Holton, Raynham, and Mrs. Charles R. Banks, Plainfield, N. J.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Minnie Holton Callendar, Northfield; recording secretary, Miss Elsie F. Packer, Hartford, Conn.; historian, Rev. Edward Payson Holton, Newburyport; executive committee, Harry W. Holton, Holden, Ernest C. Holton, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Perley Fay, Greenfield; auditor, Charles D. Streeter, Mount Hermon; treasurer, Nelson L. Elmer of Springfield.

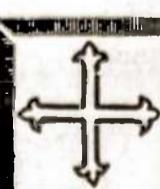

The program consisted of an original poem read by George Arthur Smith of Yonkers, N. Y., followed with a very interesting talk by Rev. Edward Holton telling of his recent visit to Ipswich, England, in research of the William Holton lineage, after which a talk was given by Mrs. Charles Banks of Plainfield, N. J. A report was made by Mrs. Callendar in which she read letters and telegrams of regret from members of the association living in nearly every state in the union. A message of sympathy was sent to Miss Cora Holton who is critically ill at New Haven, Ct.

After the business meeting all assembled for a group picture. At two o'clock a banquet was served in the hotel dining room.

Guests were present from all over New England, New York state and as far west as St. Louis. Those serving on the reception committee were Mrs. Minnie Holton Callendar, Mrs. Charles D. Streeter and the Misses Dorothy Armstrong, Esther Holton and Betsy Holton.

COMPLIMENT

A southwestern Kansas minister, preaching in a neighboring community church, mentioned in his sermon that some people attended church for no better reason than to show off their best clothes. Then he concluded with this tribute: "I am thankful to see that it is plain none of you come for that reason."

OUR POET'S CORNER

THAT'S SEPTEMBER

M. W. A.

Bright sunshines all around
Casting shadows on the ground;
Wind a-sighing in the trees;
Drowsy hum of busy bees,
Flowers blooming everywhere,
Just a cold snap in the air,
That's September.

Gath'ring hay into the barns;
Golden pumpkins on the farms,
Apples rip'ning on the trees,
Gorgeous col'ring of the leaves.
Gladsome time of all the year
With joy we greet the month so dear,
That's September.

All the golden fruit so mellow
Put heart and heart into a fellow.
A hazy glow upon the hills;
Grain being taken to the mills,
Green grass below, blue sky above,
Chirp of the sparrow, coo of the dove,
That's September.

The grasshopper and the Katy-did
Now vie with each other and bid
Fair to silence the noisy frog.
We hear from yonder watery bog,
And the glad and happy sunshine
Is like unto new made wine,
That's September.

The vault of Heaven, a cloudless
blue,
Tunes our hearts to thoughts so
true,
Cold starry nights and Heaven's done
Is a promise to us, of a welcome home
To a land beyond the Evening Star,
Where we almost see the Gates ajar,
That's September.

Brattleboro, Vt.FORTY-FOURTH ANNUAL VALLEY FAIR THIS MONTH

The 44th annual Valley Fair at Brattleboro will be held this year on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 24 and 25, opening with a night show on the 23rd with band concert, vaudeville, track events and fireworks. There will be but one night show instead of two as formerly.

Some 2700 premium lists are being sent through the mails, and any interested persons who do not receive a copy should get in touch with Norman A. Howe, secretary, the Barber building, Brattleboro.

The sheep and swine exhibits have been discontinued for lack of patronage.

Purses aggregating $2400 will be awarded in the horse races to run off on both days of the fair, three on each day. On the first day there will be a 2.18 trot, 2.20 pace, and a 2.30 trot and pace. The second day's events will include a 2.14 trot, a 2.17 pace and a 2.24 trot and pace. Each event will be on the three-heat plan, with a purse of $400 for each race. A three per cent entry fee will be returned winners. Rules for the events will be those of the National Trotting Association, of which the Valley Fair Association is a member. It is expected that this year's events will draw a larger entry list than ever before. There will also be running races on both days of the fair.

Engage Elaborate Fireworks Display

Super-Spectacle "Bombardment of Fort McHenry"
Eastern States Exposition Feature

Following negotiations extending over a period of nearly six months, officials of the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., have arranged to present this year the famous historical spectacle, "The Bombardment of Fort McHenry," which commemorates and recreates the great naval engagement of 1812 during which the "Star Spangled Banner" was written.

The complete spectacle, with thousands of feet of scenic settings, ships, forts, and elaborate pyrotechnical effects, will be staged in front of the grandstand each night of the Exposition from Sept. 15 to 21 inclusive. The action will take place in huge, open air panorama more than 600 feet long and the entire area where the original engagement was fought will be reproduced with the sea, American fortifications, British warships and general terrain carried out with exact historical accuracy. Every stage of the famous naval bombardment will be enacted in detail, including destruction of fortifications, sinking of ships, and final American victory.

Sixteen vaudeville acts, auto polo, band concerts, special display of fire-gorgeous nightly display of fireworks will complete the nightly outdoor program. Chief among the vaudeville attractions will be "The Great Wilno," the human projectile. Wilno is a European who will satisfy the wildest appetite for thrills by permitting himself to be shot from the mouth of a 6-ton cannon across space into a net 100 feet away. He will perform this feat every afternoon and evening.

To complete the program there are skilled aerialists, tumblers, acrobats, horses, elephants, trained animals and all the features of a circus to be found under the canvas big top.

"Dauber does every realistic work, doesn't he?" said one artist to another.

"So much so," replied the other, "that those apples he painted six weeks ago are now said by the critics to be rotten."

The dry weather still continues and all the gardens are badly dried up. Cattle and stock in the pastures are getting out or trying to find more food and water. On Branch brook, above Henry Newton's, the water is so low that the fish are dying, some places being nothing but mud and in other places not enough water to cover the fish's backs. Some of the fish were taken out and carried to deeper water. In another pond there are hundreds of bull heads dying for the need of water.

Family Gathering at Charles Whitaker's

A family gathering was held with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitaker Monday, the guest of honor being Mrs. Leroy Wells of Danbury, Conn. The table was set on the lawn where 24 did justice to a fine dinner which was provided. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wetmore and son, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wetmore and son, Junior, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Atherton of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wells and three children of Danbury, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whitaker and children, Mrs. Etta Chapin and Myron Chapin from town.

Miss Caroline A. Barber

Miss Caroline A. Barber passed away at the home of her brother, Charles S. Barber on South street last Saturday night after a year's illness.

She was born January 18, 1859, at Mendon, the daughter of Rev. Stillman and Mary Fiske Barber. She attended Powers Institute and graduated from Framingham Normal school in the class of 1878. Following her graduation she taught one year in Minneapolis, Minn.; six years in Greenfield and for 32 years was a very successful teacher in the primary grades in Plainfield, N. J. Since her school work was finished, she has made her home most of the time with her brother and family and has been here about ten years.

For 10 years she was in Cushman library and since her retirement has served as trustee of the library and also on the book committee. She was a member of the Unitarian church and was always an active member in all its branches, her father being pastor from 1868 to 1871.

Miss Barber was one of the founders of the Emily Jenness Memorial fund of Powers Institute. She was quite a poetess, having written poems for different events in the community.

Besides her brother, C. S. Barber, she leaves two nieces, Miss Edith Barber.

The sheep and swine exhibits have been discontinued for lack of patronage.

"I've Been Reading"
By WILDER BUELL

"HOW TO TALK" by John Mantle Clapp and Edwin A. Kane, Ronald Press, New York. Pages 631, price $5. One of the great failings of the American people, and especially of those of us who are of the older stock and tradition, is to ignore the minor arts of life. We are so busy doing the big things and tending to the important matters, so ambitious to achieve money, fame or distinction, that we frequently fail to remember that, after all, life is made up of little things and that what goes on from day to day in the course of a life time is more important in the end than the few great achievements.

One of the minor arts that is failing into disuse is that of conversation and the ability to communicate an idea to a group, large or small. Oratory, in the old sense, is going out, and the fine flow of language in daily conversation is looked upon by many as a sign of affectation. Yet there is an art of communication that can be cultivated with profit, both practical and spiritual, even after the well-merited demise of the spread eagle orator of the past and the less fortunate death of conversation as a fine art. For we must all talk. A hundred times a day every man must say something to his family, his friends, or his business associates. How he says it may make all the difference between success in life and many troubles.

And one good way to cultivate the art of communication is to read this book. The authors have had many years of experience in teaching students, organizations and groups of business men the best use of language to convey ideas. Yet it is by no means an exclusively rhetorical book. The authors plainly state that the knowledge of correct usage while important, is by no means the most important part of the art of talking. First and foremost, comes the attitude of the speaker to his audience, whether that audience is a great assembly or his own family around the dinner table. And the best way, according to this book, to become an adaptable and ready talker, is to begin by considering the other man first and yourself second. All of which is excellent moral, as well as good practical advice. And so throughout the book. While there is no skimping of detailed practical advice on almost every conceivable situation in which a man might find himself called upon to express himself in words, yet it is the general tone and flavor of the book that makes it stand out as a classic, in contrast to the usual book on speech making, salesmanship and conventions. Urbane, cultivated, dignified, yet winning, the authors beautifully illustrate their own theme, that the use of words may be an art. And an art that will make life pleasanter and more graceful both for the speaker who has studied it and for all his friends.

And why not? There seems to be a tradition among us here in New England that there is something a little slick in the ability to use our mother tongue fluently. With the result that we are more or less notorious throughout the world for what other people consider our cold and aloof dispositions. Yet we are not really cold and aloof at all. We are merely inarticulate. The author of "The Other Side of Main Street" can say with propriety and conviction that nowhere in the world are the people kinder, more tolerant of each other's failings or more distinguished for real courtesy than right here in New England. The only reason why we are sometimes misjudged by glib outsiders is because we have never taken the trouble to cultivate the art of "How to Talk."

KEEP HOME AIR MOVING AND INCREASE WORKING EFFICIENCY

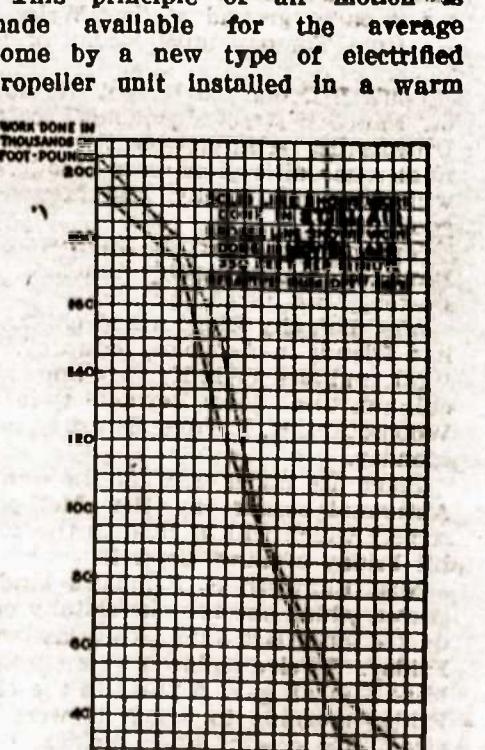

Modern air conditioning science makes it possible for employers to increase both the comfort and the efficiency of their workers by simple and inexpensive methods, declares the Holland Institute of Thermology of Holland, Mich. And the same methods can be used to change the ordinary warm air circulating heating plant into a year-round air conditioning plant that will make the home comfortable in summer as well as in winter.

Keep the air in the factory, office or home moving steadily at moderate velocity instead of allowing it to remain stagnant—that's the principle by which effective cooling can be introduced without complicated refrigerating or dehumidifying machinery, according to the ventilating experts of the Holland Institute.

Air motion tests recently conducted at the Pittsburgh research laboratories of the U. S. Bureau of Mines and the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers showed how the application of this principle increases working efficiency. First, men were put to work in the test chambers with the air normally still and stagnant. Then this air—of the same temperature and with the same relative humidity—was blown past the workers at a velocity of 350 feet.

All the men tested were able to produce more work in the moving air than in still air. The results are shown in the chart given here, which was simplified by the Holland Institute of Thermology from one prepared by the Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

Other tests showed that the workers' pulse rates were lowered by the air motion and healthfully warmed air rather than a small quantity of dry and parched air.

BANKING FINDS THE WAY TO SAFER ERA

By FRANK W. SIMMONDS,
American Bankers Association

In considering the banking situation throughout the country, the fact should be kept in mind that while one bank in ten failed during the past eight years, it is far more important that nine banks out of ten, operating in the same general field, serving the same communities and meeting almost identically the same problems, weathered the economic storm of readjustment successfully. This achievement cannot be ascribed to any element of luck, but rather to consistent adherence to sound banking principles and profitable practices. Through worthy and efficient management they met the issues and problems confronting them, squarely and successfully.

Banking is regarded as the keystone of our entire business structure, hence bank failures are rightly regarded as intolerable public calamities that must absolutely be prevented. The three major objectives of all inter-bank organizations, whether local, county, district, state or national, are to make banking safer for all concerned and, through increased efficiency in bank management and supervision, to lessen or eliminate all forms of losses so that greater rewards may accrue to banking and better service to the public. There is definite evidence throughout the country of a strong and growing spirit of cooperation among bankers and banking organizations, which is resulting more and more in strengthening the work of all.

Clearinghouse associations among banks in city, county or district groups undoubtedly constitute the chief line of defense against bad banking practices. They have demonstrated that they are the principal factor in bringing about reformation in banking regulations, improvements in banking methods and the observance of sound banking principles. For many years the primary purpose of a clearinghouse association was the clearance of checks, but today it is the clearance of banking ideas and the solution of banking problems. Clearinghouses supply the local machinery essential for setting up and putting in practice necessary standards and uniformities. There are now 435 clearinghouse associations in cities, towns, counties and groups of counties in the United States.

Men today are more intelligently group-minded than ever before. Banking is combining the best elements of competition with sound group action. By virtue of this combination, individual thought has much wider possibilities of expression. In general, group action has not stifled but has stimulated individual thinking and initiative. Better inter-bank organization and relationships afforded by clearinghouses would have undoubtedly saved many institutions that have suffered failure in the past. The clearinghouse activities of the American Bankers Association are conducted for the purpose of encouraging ever widening cooperation along fundamental principles and practices among banks through clearinghouse associations. Bankers in every city, county or district can, through the agency of a clearinghouse, promote better, safer and more profitable banking and also serve their communities better.

There never was a time when successful bankers were so alert to the value of team work for putting the entire banking structure in prime condition. Sound bank management is the order of the day. Constructive cooperation is more than a sentiment, it is an economic necessity, a matter of enlightened self-interest, and successful bankers more and more are utilizing the agency of constructive group action in developing and establishing necessary standards and uniformities in banking practices. Each year banking is becoming more of a science and attaining higher professional standards.

"My son," said the parent, "you should not forget that a rolling stone gathers no moss."

The son pondered the old adage a moment then answered: "I know, father, but where in the world is there a market for moss?"

We editors may hunt and toll Till our fingers are sore, But some poor fish is bound to say, "I've heard that joke before."

Industrial Show Stresses Aviation

Improved Business Conditions Reflected in Demands for Eastern States Exposition Space

Improved business conditions, particularly in New England, are reflected in demands for exhibition space and in the increased diversity of the Industrial Arts Show displays that will be a predominating feature of the 13th annual Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., from Sept. 15 to 21, inclusive.

A division of major importance will be that devoted to aviation. The Aviation Show inaugurated in 1928 will be continued on a larger scale and will be housed in the Industrial Arts building with its displays grouped for public inspection. Five different types of planes, one the Gee Bee, manufactured in Springfield, will be shown. Among the others will be a Curtiss Robin, identical with the ship recently completing the St. Louis endurance test. The keynote of the aviation show will be safety and progress in commercial flying. Model landing fields, lighting equipment, types of construction and other phases of aerial transportation will be presented. There will be displays of boys' and girls' model planes, and airmail and aerial photography exhibits.

MAIL BOX THEFTS
AID CHECK FORGERS

American Bankers Association in Nationwide Warning Exposes Methods and Gives Rules to Combat Them.

NEW YORK.—Anti operations in many cities of mail box thieves, who open bank communications to customers, containing details of their accounts and cancelled checks showing their banking signatures, and use this material in perpetrating check forgeries, have led the American Bankers Association to issue a nation-wide warning to its members with instructions for combating this form of crime. The warning as sent out by James E. Baum in charge of the association's Protective Department says:

"Heavy losses are being sustained through cancelled vouchers and statements stolen from the mail boxes of bank depositors in apartment and office buildings, thus divulging the depositors' balances and supplying models for forged checks. As a step to put customers on guard against these methods, banks are urged to instruct every depositor to whom they mail statements of deposit accounts on the last business day of each month to notify them promptly if such statements are not received by the close of the next day.

"Also banks should educate depositors to safeguard blank checks and cancelled vouchers as they would money. Such paper stolen by forgers soon puts real money in their hands. If all blank checks and cancelled vouchers were securely kept in safes instead of filing cabinets or desks, the check crooks would be denied their chief stock in trade, namely, genuine blank checks and signatures. Warnings to depositors against leaving blank or cancelled checks accessible to sneak thieves or burglars should be sent out at once.

"Estimates broadcast by surety companies indicate that individuals, merchants, hotels and others outside of banking are shouldering more than 99 per cent of the total amount of forgery losses. The bulk of forgery loss on checks is sustained by those who are willing to risk accepting them without reliable proof of identity or title of the presenter.

"Years ago the Protective Department of the American Bankers Association adopted the slogan, 'Strangers are not always crooks, but crooks are usually strangers.' If those outside of banking could be prevailed upon to observe this rule and think about it when considering accepting a check for their merchandise or services, for which they are also asked to give a substantial sum in cash in change, one of the biggest aids to the forgery business would be denied the crooks."

ALL FOR PLEASURE

The flapper on her first trip across bustled up to a sailor swabbing the deck said: "I want to see the captain of this ship."

"He's forward, miss," explained the sailor.

"I don't care if he is," exclaimed the flapper. "This is a pleasure trip."

SCRUB BULL IS
HALED TO COURT

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny, and a few other such charges, Scrub Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and wilfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of its kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentence could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly spirited him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of lax and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and the trial were threefold, namely: to develop public sentiment for more and better Jerseys; to foster a more cooperative spirit for dairying and livestock growing, and to promote tick eradication.

The banks of Laurel entered into a cooperative arrangement in their efforts for fostering agricultural development and successful farming in the community, offering $2,165 as premiums to the outstanding farm workers throughout the territory during 1929. An instructive booklet has been issued, showing the agricultural activity of the banks, together with announcements of contests for farmers, exhibits in the bank lobbies and prizes offered.
